

2. International Baccalaureate Courses programme

Alternatively, students can take individual IB Courses. This option allows for greater flexibility in the choice of HL and SL combinations - students can take up to 6 subjects and up to 3 of these can be HL Courses. An IB Courses programme does not necessarily include the Core elements of the Diploma Programme and is therefore less demanding. Austrian Matura equivalence is also possible by taking a Courses programme.

3. Vienna International School Diploma

Students on either of the programmes above may also qualify for the Vienna International School Diploma. This reflects both their achievements on their academic Courses and also in the Core elements of the Programme.
